

FAA Friend Of The Flyer

If you're a pilot, you will be familiar with the services offered by the Federal Aviation Agency. If you're not a pilot, and that includes most of us, you may have little idea of what the dozen men of the FAA do each day at the Houlton International Airport.

It is by no means a secret operation. The FAA has been in Houlton for nearly 20 years, most of it under their old name of the CAA. Their job is one of assisting aircraft that may be flying over the Northern Maine area. To do this job the FAA's Flight Service Station is manned 24 hours a day, every day of the year, and they have well over one-quarter of a million dollars of electronic equipment at their disposal.

Flight Station, located in the terminal building at the airport. With radio equipment, teletypes and direct telephone lines, they are in contact with all air flights, whether they be commercial, private or military.

They serve as advisors to aircraft, giving pre-flight information on weather and other factors that may involve the flight. They also broadcast regular weather reports. The Station takes the military flight plans of all planes leaving Loring Air Force Base, and has a direct telephone line to Loring. Movements of aircraft, as they are recorded, and all of this information is sent to the regional FAA headquarters at Boston.

to pilots, is routine in nature. However one of the most important services offered by the FAA is far from routine. That is in the assistance of finding aircraft that may be lost. If the aircraft's radio is still working, it is possible for the FAA to pinpoint its location. If the radio is not working, the FAA will be able to tell from a flight plan where the aircraft should have been at the time it was lost, and is able to direct the search parties.

Mr. Haley has eight men in his Flight Station, working on shifts around the clock. To make sure that their equipment remains in top operating condition, there are an additional four men who comprise the maintenance crew. The men form the FAA's Assistance Maintenance Sector, working under Chief

Houlton FAA Station Conducts Open House

The Federal Aviation Agency is currently observing its fifth anniversary, and in conjunction with the celebration, open house is being conducted at the FAA station at the International Airport in Houlton.

The open house will be conducted today, Friday and Saturday between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., with the public invited to inspect the facilities.

Thomas Ewing, chief of the electronics technicians with hundreds of hours of schooling and experience, these four men are responsible for keeping the four units of the FAA in this area operating around the clock. Two of the units are located at the airport, and the other two atop Westford Hill in Hodgdon.

Both Hodgdon installations are unmanned and work entirely by remote control. One is controlled from the Boston headquarters, and the other from Houlton. Both units have dual equipment, with the second set functioning automatically in the event there is a failure in the first set.

The FAA crews have at their disposal four-wheel drive vehicles, a station wagon, and a snow-cat. Even with all of this it is still necessary to hike to the top of Westford Hill in Hodgdon on many occasions during the winter in order to service the equipment there.

While the FAA at Houlton offers its service primarily to aircraft, it does have a tangible effect on the town. The annual payroll is in excess of $100,000, and there is another $5,000 a year that is spent locally on leases, equipment and supplies.

WEATHER REPORTS — At one-quarter of and one-quarter past the hour each day weather reports are broadcast by the Flight Service Station of the Federal Aviation Agency located in Houlton. The broadcasts are for all aircraft that may be flying in Northern Maine and parts of New Brunswick and Quebec. The service is one of many that the FAA offers for military, commercial and private aircraft. Making the broadcast is Wayne Kenny, an air traffic control specialist.

In the wake of the most dramatic campus campaigning in the school's history, Ricker College students went to the polls Tuesday to elect student government and class officers and representatives.

Most of the candidates ran as independents, but two party slates advertised candidates in the three-week long campaign, which covered buildings, bulletin boards, trees and windows on the campus with posters ranging in size from 10 by 12 inches to five by 22 feet. Bonnell headed up the United Party, which placed its entire slate.

The Student Council vice presidential spot was won by Allyn C. Seel of Ventnor, N.J. Seel ran against independent Lloyd Farnham of Waterville.

Nine-Inch Snow Fall Causes Heavy Damage

Nine inches of wet, sticky snow fell on Southern Aroostook Tuesday, bringing to an abrupt halt the unseasonably warm weather that had been experienced throughout the month. The snowfall, accompanied by winds that gusted to 35 miles an hour, caused heavy damage to telephone and power lines.

Most of the damage was caused by the wind, rather than the snow. Falling trees brought down utility lines, and in at least two instances in the immediate Houlton area, fell on houses and automobiles. A spokesman for the New England Telephone company said that Houlton and Littleton were hit hard by the storm, and that Danforth and Wytopitlock were completely isolated as far as telephone service is concerned.

Power failures were also experienced by the Houlton Water Company, with areas of the town being without lights for relatively brief periods during the height of the storm Tuesday. Heaviest damage to the Water Company came at New Limerick where nine poles, in a row, were toppled.

Traveling was extremely hazardous, and scores of automobiles were stranded in drifts or had skidded off the highways. A school bus was reportedly stuck for four hours on its way to Monticello with children returning from school. All schools remained open through the storm, and were in session as usual Wednesday.

State Police reported numerous accidents, none of them serious. Traffic generally kept off the highways and streets during much of the storm.

Snow plows and other snow removal equipment got its first good workout of the season.

Temperatures during the storm remained at about the 30 degree mark, and moderated a bit Wednesday, with the snow already beginning to melt. The temperature dropped nearly 40 degrees from what it was over the weekend.

SAD Building Plans Gain Ok From Voters

A school construction program, that will provide a new junior high school at Houlton and an all-purpose building at Monticello, was given overwhelming support by residents of the four towns of School Administrative District 29 during voting Monday.

Residents of all four towns favored both building proposals. The total vote on the junior high was 786 for and 116 against. This means that 87 per cent of those who voted on the question voted for the junior high.

The all-purpose building at Monticello received 709 votes for, as compared to 190 against. The "yes" vote represented 71 per cent of those who cast their ballots on this question.

Dean Ingraham, chairman of the District's Board of Trustees, said he was "very pleased" with the results of the election. "It means," he said, "that our efforts have not been in vain."

Particularly pleasing to Mr. Ingraham and other members of the Board was the turnout of voters in Houlton and in Monticello, and the fact that both proposals were favored in each of the District towns. There had been some concern that voters might give their approval to the junior high, which would serve all four towns, and not support the all-purpose building at Monticello, which would serve only the pupils of that town. The all-purpose building will be an auditorium, gymnasium and cafeteria.

Only in Littleton, where voting was very light, was the question of the Monticello building in doubt. It was carried by an eight-vote margin, 33-25. Littleton voters favored the junior high by a better than 3-1 margin.

The big turnout of voters in Monticello saw all but unanimous support for both questions. The all-purpose building was favored by 294 of the 299 persons who cast their ballots, and only 12 were opposed to the junior high.

Even closer to unanimous support was received from Hammond voters, where 19 of the 20 persons who went to the polls voted for both questions.

Mr. Ingraham said that the Trustees will now meet with the architects, Wadsworth and Boston and with their educational consultant, Dr. Carl H. Porter Shirley, a assistant professor of education at the University of Maine.

Customs At Monticello Lists Dates Of Closing

MONTICELLO — Fred Williams, inspector at the Customs Station in Monticello, has announced that his station will be closed Sundays and holidays beginning with November 3, and continuing through May 30.

The closing affects only the Monticello Customs Station, and follows a program that has been in effect in past years.

Potato Growers Need Marketing Plan To Qualify For Crop Diversion Funds

Potato growers, who once approved and then rejected a Marketing Order for their crops for the coming marketing season, are finding themselves being queried on the matter for the third time. This time they are told that to obtain funds through a U.S. Department of Agriculture crop diversion program, they need either a Marketing Order or a marketing plan.

Meetings on the subject are currently being held. Growers in the Houlton area met Tuesday night, and growers in the Houlton area are scheduled to meet next Tuesday at the Northland Hotel at 7:30 p.m., with John Moores as chairman.

These meetings have been called by the Maine Potato Council, which as yet has taken neither privately nor officially any position on the controversial subject of diversion. Representatives of the Council will attempt to explain fully all aspects of the USDA diversion program, and then will ask the growers attending the meetings to vote on three questions:

1. If by any chance it was possible to obtain a diversion program at a rate of $1.65 per barrel under much stricter regulations that would include an overall marketing program that would promote orderly marketing, increase outlets and speed up disappearance in non-Government channels, would you favor the Council making such a request?

2. If diversion was available only at the same rate as last year, would you favor making a request?

3. Are you opposed to any type of diversion?

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has announced that the USDA will encourage the diversion of potatoes to starch, flour and livestock feed, and that payment of potatoes diverted will be 50 cents per hundredweight from now through December 31; 40 cents per hundredweight from January 1 to February 29, and 30 cents from March 1 to the termination of the program.

The price of 50 cents per hundredweight is equivalent to $2.5 cents per barrel. Under Question 1 being asked the growers, it would mean that the Federal government would pay half of the $1.65 diversion price. The remainder would come from the starch factories. This past year the government also paid the $2.5 cents, but prices paid by the factories generally brought the total received by the grower to around $1.20 or $1.30.

Secretary Freeman has said that diversion operations will be made available only in states or areas where the potato industry develops an acceptable marketing plan to provide consumers with the best quality portion of the potato crop and to dispose of the balance in secondary outlets.

The Maine growers have voted to discontinue their Marketing Order and have no marketing plan that would qualify them to be eligible for the diversion program. If, at these meetings being sponsored by the Potato Council, growers indicate they favor a diversion program, it will then be necessary to vote a third time this year on a marketing plan.

ELECTRONICALLY MINDED — Tom Ewing, chief of the Assistance Maintenance Sector for the Federal Aviation Agency at Houlton, adjusts one of the complex and expensive pieces of equipment used by the FAA. Mr. Ewing heads a staff of four electronics technicians whose job it is to keep the more than one-quarter million dollars worth of equipment in top operating condition.

REGULAR CHECK — Vern Jensen (seated) and Fred D'Amato, electronics technicians, perform one of their regular checks at the VOR station in Hodgdon that is connected with the Federal Aviation Agency Flight Service Station at Houlton. The VOR (Very high frequency Omni Range) serves aircraft much the same as a lighthouse served ships. It sends out two signals, one indicating true North, and the other constant but variable. Aircraft can tell their location and direction upon receipt of the signals.

is expected that it will be three to four years before final plans for the new high are ready, and bids will be opened by next Spring, Mr. Ingraham said.

The Junior high, to be built at a cost of not over $1,049,000, will be adjacent to and adjoining the present District high school in Houlton, and will be ready for occupancy in September, 1964. Only classrooms are expected to be completed by that date, with other buildings to be completed in the following years.

The all-purpose building at Mont-cello is scheduled for completion by September of 1965. It will cost an estimated $80,000.

a net bid on a Dodge truck of $9,498.

Town Manager Walter R. Benson was authorized to ask for bids for a small bulldozer that could be used at the municipal dump, and also in sidewalk plowing. These bids are expected to be received and opened at the next regular Council meeting on November 5.

In other action the Council approved the removal of one parking meter near Myshall's Body Shop on Bangor street.

Also approved was a one-year lease with Houlton International for two buildings at the International Airport. The two buildings, one L-shaped and the other a former office, had been occupied by Passamaquoddy Lumber. They will serve Houlton International for additional storage space, and will be leased on a year-to-year basis, at the same rate Passamaquoddy had been paying.

Annual MS March Begins Next Monday

Mrs. Frank B. Dunn, chairman of the 1963 Houlton MS Hope Chest, has announced that the campaign for the benefit of the Maine Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, will take place during the month of November.

The house-to-house march will kick off the drive next Monday through Saturday, November 9. Volunteer workers will call on each home in Houlton during that week.

It has been noted by William S. French, executive director of the Maine Chapter, that there was some confusion during the recent Cerebral Palsy campaign; some of the students who were marching were under the impression that they were collecting for MS, but it was for the benefit of the Cerebral Palsy Association. This will be the only opportunity for Houlton people to contribute to the Multiple Sclerosis Society this year.

Captains serving on the March are: Mrs. Iva Parks, Mrs. Gerard York, Mrs. Cedric Brooks, Mrs. Jack Daniels, Mrs. Ronald Reardon, Mrs. Keith Wortman, Mrs. Thomas Bither, Mrs. Joseph Inman, Mrs. Terrance McGillicuddy, Mrs. Fred Powers, Mrs. Cedric Benn, Mrs. Michael Clark, Mrs. Carl Young, Mrs. Arthur Larlee, Mrs. Edward Williams, Mrs. Richard Stewart, Mrs. Albert Daniels, Miss Maria Louise Putnam and Miss Lorraine Reynolds.

Interstate Engineers Set Up Headquarters

The firm of engineers that will work on the construction of Interstate 95 from Houlton to Dyer Brook has leased the former Taylor Shoe Store on Market Square for their headquarters. As many as 21 persons are expected to work with the firm during the height of the construction, said Hammer.

The Chamber of Commerce assisted the firm, Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, of New York, in locating suitable working space, and is also assisting their people in securing housing facilities. Several of the engineers plan to move to Houlton with their families during the period of construction.

Her finger tip veil of silk illusion was fastened to a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a semicascade white poms and pink sweetheart of roses centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Dorothy Carter of Scarborough, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a street length dress of royal blue velvet. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

J. William Dow of Millinocket, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Raymond Michael of Island Falls and Robert Mitchell of Derry, N.H., brothers-in-law of the bridegroom.

EARLY STAGES — Early last summer workmen were pouring the foundation for the new dam on the Hodgdon stream. Construction of the dam will make it possible for the State to develop a Game Management Area of some 500 acres, with the area to be open to hunters, trappers and fishermen.

NEAR COMPLETION — This photo was taken as work on the Hodgdon dam neared completion. Construction was done by the State at a cost of about $26,000. The dam will enable the State to maintain a constant water level and thus attract birds to the area for nesting. It is the beginning of a 500-acre Game Management Area, the largest in Northern Maine.

State's New Game Management Area Is Completed At Hodgdon

By Larry Reece

The biggest game management area in Northern Maine was completed this week in the town of Hodgdon. This State of Maine project was recommended and started back in 1955 by Francis Dunn, regional game biologist from Patten. At the front of the management area a new dam was built this summer by the engineering division of the State at a cost of $26,000. This figure doesn't include such costs as maps, surveys, land rights, deeds and other needs for this type of a project. Work on the dam was started in April and was completed October 28, a total of six months.

The purpose of this type of a project is to select a natural site for all types of hunting, fishing and trapping for all sportsmen. Mr. Dunn believes this site at the Hodgdon stream to be the right spot after having made several surveys around the different areas. There is one other game management area in Northern Maine, but this new one at Hodgdon is the biggest.

The new game management area in Hodgdon consists of 500 acres which include 250 acres of marsh land for all types of birds and trapping animals, another 250 acres of upland suitable for game hunting.

Earlier this year 27 wild ducks were sighted by some of the residents in Hodgdon at this new site. According to Mr. Dunn the stream in Hodgdon where the new dam was built is directly in the line of the birds migratory route.

Many species of wild ducks will be making the trip to Hodgdon in the years to come such birds as the black wood ducks, ringnecks and many others to numerous to mention.

10 Feet High — Mr. Dunn mentioned that the dam was better than 10 feet high and that it could be raised by placing boards on top which will hold back more of the water and will provide better nesting areas for wild birds in the spring.

The Hodgdon stream flows into the Cary Mills stream and the Meduxnekeag River which passes through Houlton.

Other game will also nest near the dam such as muskrat, mink, otter and other fur bearing animals which will interest trappers. It's also a likely site next year for the releasing of pheasants, which this year were released and raised through the program in the Houlton Fish and Game Club.

Mr. Dunn, who has been a game biologist with the state for 11 years, also mentioned that he is working on another project for his department, which involves the swapping of grouse for Caribou. The caribou will come from Newfoundland and will be released in the Mount Katahdin area. Presently, Mr. Dunn has 76 birds and stated that he will need between 250 and 300 before the exchange will be made. Around 20 birds will be swapped for one caribou. Mr. Dunn last year made a trip to Newfoundland and helped to ship a few caribou back to Maine which are presently at Gray.

It's possible in time maybe to see some of these caribou at the new game management area in Hodgdon, but it's very doubtful if the season will be open on them.

To Take Time — The hunting area at the Hodgdon site will need to be built up, and according to Mr. Dunn it will take time. The thought of wild turkeys in the area is doubtful, because it has been proven that the State's conditions weatherwise for these birds make it impossible to raise enough for a shooting population.

The deer will be the number one target for hunters in the new site, but conditions will have to improve greatly in this area. It is hoped that the deer population in that area will grow and that ideal condition will prevail for the hunters at the new management site.

The main reason for having a game management area is to provide all sportsmen with ideal conditions and plenty of fish and game.

Experience is a succession of lessons — and only by living can they be understood.

ITS BASKETBALL TIME — A preview of what is in store for the next few months was offered Thursday night at the high school gymnasium in Houlton when the faculty team opposed the touring Harlem Diplomats. The Diplomats, a member of the Harlem Globetrotters family, entertained an excellent crowd with their sound basketball and court antics. The benefit game provided some $200 for the high school's athletic fund. Trying to block the hook shot is Dave Smith, coach of the high school's varsity hoop team. Other Houlton players are Bob White (14), Wayne Quint (11) and Bob England (30).

FREE LICENSES

This year the many deer tagging stations in the area are tagging their kill during the early and late hours of the day and with this thought in mind the old question has been asked, "How much do they get out of tagging a deer?" In answer to this, the last we knew it was 25 cents per deer. This seems like a good fair price, but when you concern yourself with some of the problems maybe it isn't enough.

One tagging station reported only last year that he was called several times from his warm bed to tag a deer. This type of deer tagging, if it happens too often, is worth much more than 25 cents. This doesn't happen often, but to those few to whom it does the price isn't enough. In some cases it would be greatly appreciated if the State fish and game department were to present these tagging stations who make a special effort to serve the hunters, with a FREE hunting and fishing license for the year.

BUYS THREE MORE

Houlton's Walter Davis recently purchased three more horses to add to his racing stable. Davis attended the annual Tattersalls sale of standard bred at Lexington, Ky., last week. The local horseman purchased Adios Ted by Adios Paul for $1,200, Coales Graham for $800.00, a filly by Colby Hanover, and paid $1,300 for Too Much Faith by Faber Hanover.

A total of 222 colts were sold at this auction which had a total sale of $1,980,800, an all-time high.

Davis's horses have finished racing at Rockingham Raceway in Salem, N.H., and are being trained and driven by Houlton's Francis Iman. The new additions to the Davis stable will be wintered and trained at the Houlton horse barn at Community Park.

SHORT REPORTS

Reports have reached our ears of three horses that were shot recently in the Hayneville area. They were believed to have been shot at night by some unknown hunters. This type of hunting is not even reasonable. The owner has suffered a great loss and to our knowledge had no insurance on the animals. Another report we heard this week was that bullet holes were found near the top of a horse barn in one of the nearby woods camps where the animals are kept. A few feet lower could have meant the death of two work horses.

The charge of 57 Aroostook County hill and daleers Friday at Houlton's Community Park was almost the end of the Pioneer Times editor and ace photographer, Marshall Hammond, as he was directly in the line of fire as the different schools' runners were starting off on their 2 1/2 mile run. The only thing that helped to save him was being able to stand in front of one of the poles that holds the lights for the men's softball field. Houlton High School won the Aroostook championship and our congrats go to coach Clyde Stinson and his varsity runners. Today the Houlton team travels to Orono for the State meet.

A Houlton student recently asked this question, "When the basketball season starts are we supposed to cheer Houlton Shire-towners or come on S.A.D. Number 29?"

One group of coon hunters advise that a hammer and a bunch of big nails will put them up any tree a coon can climb. Drive them in alternate sides like telephone pole climbing bars. Miss McKee, Peyton Hills Wed At Bridgewater Church

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton DeZeng Hills MISS MARY LOU MCKEEN

BRIDGEWATER — The Baptist Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Mary Lou McKee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKee of Bridgewater, was married to Peyton DeZeng Hills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Holden F. Hills of Fayetteville, N.Y. The double ring service was performed by the Rev. Morris Hutchins, pastor of the church.

The church was decorated with baskets of white and yellow mums. Mrs. Luther Bubar played traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Marie Pierce, who sang "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of bridal taffeta and chintilly lace. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scalloped neckline and long, tapered lace sleeves ending in bridal points. The redingote front revealed a panel of lace, which was repeated in the carriage back that terminated in a chapel train.

The bride wore a fingertip veil of bridal illusion which fell from a Queen Ann's crown trimmed with pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white fuggi chrysanthemums with touches of ivy. Her only jewels were pearl earrings.

The maid of honor, Miss Joann

Burlock, wore a pink cocktail length gown of nylon over taffeta, with the bodice fashioned with scoop neckline, set-in midriff, and topped with three quarter length sleeve jacket and a crown of hair braid and crystals with attached face veil. Her bouquet was a cascade of lavender mums with clusters of grapes.

The bridesmaids, Miss Diana Porter and Miss Carol Pelittier, wore blue cocktail length dresses similar to the maid of honor, with yellow flowers with clusters of grapes, and matching headbands.

William Schuessler of New Jersey was best man and ushers were Holden F. Hills Jr., John Hodge and Wayne McKee.

Mrs. Margaret Yerxa was hostess at the reception held in the church vestry immediately following the ceremony. This was decorated with Autumn bouquets. The wedding cake, made by Mrs. Thomas Trafford of Tracy Mills was cut by Mrs. Keith McKee after the first slice was cut by the bride and bridegroom and served by Miss Donna Kennedy and Mrs. Katy Buck. Mrs. Linda Medley dipped punch. Others serving were Mrs. Evelyn Burlock, Mrs. Phyllis Bradbury, Mrs. Jean Sigmonson, Mrs. Ruby Wheeler, Mrs. Virginia Milliken, Mrs. Janet McKinnon and Miss Susan Bradbury.

Mrs. Hills is a graduate of Bridgewater Classical Academy and is employed as traffic supervisor for the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Presque Isle.

Mr. Hills attended the McDonough Military School in Pikeville, Md., and the Jamesville-DeWitt High School in DeWitt, N.Y. He is currently assigned to the 219 2d Communications Squadron (AFCS) at Loring AFB.

For a wedding trip to Quebec, Montreal and Niagara Falls, the bride wore a gold wool sheath dress with gold and brown accessories and a brown coat with mink collar.

The couple will reside at 25 Third street, Presque Isle.

Chebeague Island Proposal Unsound

Voters will make a return trip to the polling booths next Tuesday, this time for a State election. The ballot will contain five referendum questions, asking for a total bond issue of $20,330,000, and there will also be two Constitutional amendments to be acted upon.

Of the five referendum questions, we would urge a "Yes" vote on all but Question 5. This is a request for a $3 million bond issue to construct a causeway between Cousins Island and Littlejohns Island, and a bridge and causeway between Littlejohns and Chebeague Island. All of the islands are in the Casco Bay area, near Portland.

The Chebeague Island bridge and causeway was rejected by both the 99th and 100th Legislature, and we understand got by the 101st only in the final moments when a great deal of vote swapping took place.

The Maine Good Roads Association, a non-political body that has the sole purpose of promoting good roads for the State, has taken a strong stand against the Chebeague Island proposal. And not because it would not be a good road, but simply because its cost will be well over the amount being asked. Costs could run as high as $6.5 million.

Adequate means of financing are not being provided for such a bridge and causeway, and as such we concur with the contention of the Good Roads Association that Question 5 merits a "No" vote.

Money for State-supported schools is being asked in two separate questions, both for construction of self-liquidating facilities. One would provide dining facilities at the Maine Maritime Academy, and the other student housing for the teachers colleges. Both of these, we believe, deserve your support.

A second highway construction program being placed on the ballot would provide a $7 million bond authorization for the highway program for the fiscal years of 1966 and 1967. It recognizes the need of advance planning by providing funds four years in advance in order not to delay highway programs.

Also worthy of support is the referendum question asking for funds for a general capital improvement program for the State, and two Constitutional amendments. One of the amendments would affect the apportionment of the House of Representatives, and the other would forbid discrimination against any person.

Let's Sell Potatoes To Russia

(The Produce News)

With the sale of American wheat to Mr. K. & Co. on the way to being consummated, the question arises: Can we and do we want to sell the Russians anything else from our abundant and, in some cases, burdensome supplies?

The rumor mill early this week ground out sulphur as the next commodity the Soviet Union might want from the West. Earlier this year the Russians bought 40,000 tons of sulphur from Canada and, with the agriculture-conscious Soviet government interested in fertilizers to boost its lagging farm production, the sulphur rumor gained some credence. However, later it was discounted and termed "exaggerated."

There is another area, however, in which we might do business with the U.S.S.R. "Potatoes and other vegetables are reported in short supply there," says a dispatch in the New York Herald Tribune, "and there is much blaming of organizations which do the purchasing. But purchasers cannot buy what is not there and, in a significant article, Pravda, the Soviet Communist Party newspaper, urged authorities to reinforce 'state potato resources' with purchases from peasants' private plots. The 'resources' represent the crops of state and collective farms.

"Western sources, however, think it doubtful that there are substantial reserves of potatoes in the hands of individual farmers, as Pravda suggests.

"The way the rumor mill is spinning, the humble potato may be next in the international trade spotlight."

As we see it, it's far better to sell what we can of our surplus commodities than to store them or leave them to rot, at the expense of the already overburdened taxpayer. So we say: "Let's sell them some of our potatoes!"

Voices That Are Gone

No more does one hear them. Gone are the voices that were part of the great symphony of yesterday. Time marches on and the voices change; the tempo seems to increase as man searches for the secrets that mean a better life.

The raucous hoot of the diesel blasts the peaceful air instead of the long, lonesome-sounding, but satisfying whistle of the steam engine, echoing back among the hills and spreading across the fields. The sharp impatience of the auto horn has displaced the friendly greetings of men passing each other with horse and buggy.

Do you remember the impatient whinny of the horses as you opened the barn doors in the morning? Remember the staccato rattling of the gray-weathered wooden planks in the old bridge over the creek. Remember the music of the crackling wood in the tall, nickel-trimmed heater in the living-room?

On a fall day one would hear the song of a wood-sawing gasoline engine as farmers worked up the woodpile in the backyard. On the old cherry kitchen table, boys turned the crank of the cedar churn and listened hopefully for the clunking, monotone sound that meant the butter had finally come. And in the village blacksmith shop, there was music from the anvil as the old blacksmith pounded a red hot shoe and the orange sparks flew in a wide cloud.

Gone are those voices. Gone are many of the crafts and tasks that produced them. But sometimes a man living with his memories can hear those voices from yesteryear. The music of a great nation goes on. The symphony is never completed. One wishes that somehow against the harsh cacophony of this fast-moving era, the softer voices of the past could be blended into a stirring symphony of a nation striving to achieve its goal.

"TRICK OR TREATY?"

Washington Highlights

By Ray Vernon

During the height of the Billie Sol Estes scandal Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman made a comment about government officials which was never so true as it is today.

He put it this way: "When you work for the government you have not only got to be cleaner than a hound's tooth, you have got to look cleaner."

New Scandals

Well, we find ourselves in the middle of a new series of scandals involving high government officials.

The Secretary of Navy, Fred Korth, has just resigned — completely unexpectedly — amid reports the Kennedy administration wanted to get rid of him.

And then the story comes out that Mr. Korth, a former bank president in Texas, had written a number of letters since becoming a defense official which seem to show he was still trying to throw some business toward his bank.

On top of that there is the Bobby Baker affair. Mr. Baker was Secretary to the Majority of the U.S. Senate which meant he was the most influential and powerful employee of the Senate.

Mr. Baker quit his job, too, and under considerable clouds of suspicion. Mr. Baker's outside business deals, which are still coming to light daily, have apparently made him a wealthy man. He is now under intensive investigation both by the FBI and a committee of senators who are disturbed over a possible conflict-of-interest situation involving one of their own employees.

Neither Mr. Korth nor Mr. Baker have been found guilty of breaking any laws, that is for sure. But there is no question of impropriety and indiscretion on the part of each.

The amazing thing about all this is that these things should happen at all. But it seems to happen in every administration.

Remember the big headlines when Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's right hand man, got caught accepting a vicuna coat? And the deep freeze and mink coat scandal of the Truman administration?

There is one interesting sidelight to the Baker-Korth story which persists in Washington. It may just be idle gossip or bar talk but it persists nevertheless.

As the story goes all this is tied up with "dump Lyndon" movement. Which is to say the Kennedys have found a way to drop Vice President Lyndon Johnson off the Democratic ticket in next year's Presidential election.

Johnson Protege

This much is a fact. Bobby Baker, one time Senate page boy, was a protege of the Vice President when Johnson was the big man of the U.S. Senate. And Johnson had a lot to do with getting his fellow Texan Fred Korth appointed Secretary of the Navy.

It is also a well-known fact there is no love lost between Baker and the President's brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Both the Sophomore and Junior Classes at Ricker Classical Institute held election of officers. The Sophomores, with their advisor, Andrew J. Lidestri, have chosen the following: Frank Dunn, president; Budson Anderson, vice president; Joanne Lowrey, secretary; William McGary, treasurer; Lois Ingram, representative to Student Council. The Juniors elected the following: Virginia M. Ludd, president; Henry Lunn, vice president; Margaret Duff, secretary; Rodney Kennedy, treasurer; David McDonald, representative to Student Council. Their advisor is Wendell R. Grant.

Bobby Vs. Bobby

The 1960 Democratic convention in Los Angeles Hobbie Baker was hard at the task of trying to swing the Presidential nomination to Lyndon Johnson and the same time the other Bobby was working just as assiduously for Jack Kennedy. The two Bobby's have never patched their differences.

This aspect of the case is important only because some of the juiciest information about Bobby Baker's other life has been developed by the FBI, an arm of Bobby Kennedy's Justice Department.

In the Korth affair there is a tragic aspect that shouldn't be ignored.

The demands on a public official in Washington can be overwhelming. Mr. Korth found he was unable to live within his $22,500 a year government salary. He was forced to sell most of his bank stock. He borrowed money from a relative. And most of this went — apparently — for entertainment. Korth undoubtedly found himself a victim of a vicious Washington practice — entertain and be entertained.

But still, it's as Freeman said: "You not only have to be cleaner than a hound's tooth; you've got to look cleaner."

Capitol Report

Weekly Letter from Augusta

Special From The Enterprise

AUGUSTA — Since Standish K. Bachman was given the commission of the Department of Economic Development, the news boys have been asking him for interviews. Instead of having them in one at a time, he scheduled a press conference, which was well attended but rather an unexciting event. The press is evidently on its good behavior, and will not quickly react to the rather delicate situation in this department.

Special Lexicon

There was mostly the recurrence of standard phrase from the special lexicon of the department. Philip Macy, Chick Evans, Bob Elliott, and others of the department staff were on hand, and a tape recording was made of the conversations by the department sound man — it was a little like giving a deposition in a strained atmosphere.

Comm. Bachman gave a good account of himself, although he showed a disposition to feel things out, and he offered nothing in the way of a striking or revolutionary program to come. He stressed the quest for industrial and recreational business. At one point he said he thought the department was understaffed in some respects, but he said he had no plans to ask further funds of the legislature when it meets in special session.

The press group evidently felt it would be well to give the new man some time to settle himself in, and not to press him for exciting revelations so soon. The commissioner explained his feeling about going out to make speeches — there is always a bombardment of new commissioners from Lions and Kiwanis Clubs and the tendency to become articulate in all directions was being checked by Bachman. He said he had decided to make his first major appearance, suggesting possibly a speech with some meat in it, at a Portland Rotary meeting late in November.

The shake-up of the DED certainly suggests that the public be kind for at least the time being, and not make any quick decisions. Born in an atmosphere of political clamoring for "new industry", the DED had a bipartisan political history that left it somewhat in limbo as far as fair game went. It had a tincture of sacrosanct purposes, sort of on the plane of Motherhood, Piety and the Fourth of July, and the reaction to its shortcomings about the state was a delayed take. Rumbly began some four years ago, and there was a slight echo in the 1960 Legislature.

In the 101st Legislature the thing really took hold, and a special committee was set up to investigate the department fully and come up with something or other. Almost everybody agreed the DED needed repairs, but the practical aspects of a very intangible business got greatly complicated in a variety of puff bills that would have done more service if they had stayed in the pockets of misguided legislators who brought them in. In the end, the resignation of Lloyd K. Allen was duly noted, and after long, and no doubt careful, search the governor came up with Mr. Bachman.

Proof

To Come

The proof of this pudding is going to be in the days to come when all the assembled criticisms of DED are put to the test to see if there are changes. These criticisms are so numerous and so varied that calm courtesy to Mr. Bachman suggests waiting a time with patience.

He certainly has a wealth of ingrown problems within the department itself, before he looks up to see what the citizens say. As to being under-staffed the thought has occurred to many that the opposite is true in some areas of activity, but not in others. And so on.

Mr. Bachman made a fine appearance. He is well spoken, not at all in the glib category, and above all else enthusiastic and sincere. He is not a state-houser, yet.

The Editor's Corner

This week the Pioneer Times is introducing two new features to its editorial page. This column is one, and the other is "From The Files", with brief glimpses of what was taking place in our area 15, 25 and 40 years ago. We trust that both will add a little to your reading pleasure.

While "From The Files" will take you back into the past, we shall attempt in this column to provide comments on Houlton and the Southern Aroostook scene as it appears today. And certainly no comment could be made right now without a mention of the weather.

Mrs. Wendall McCordie of Littleton brought into our office pussy willows that her daughter Lorraine had found, and also strawberry blossoms that Fred Elliott of Littleton had found only Sunday.

October temperatures that have hit in the '60's and '70's with regularity have apparently even confused nature itself.

Events that you may not see on the last Sunday of October for some time again included mowing of lawns, golfing at the Country Club, and youngsters playing baseball and tennis in T-shirts.

How dearly we may pay this Winter for this wonderful October remains to be seen.

Sunday Sermon

"Sit Side-ways On Your Load"

It was my first Winter in the lumber woods. My father was a lumberman and from my boyhood my ambition was to be a "teamster" — a good one.

We had been hauling from the yards to the rafting grounds some three weeks. I had a young, well matched team, tough and good. Father had paired me with one of the best log-haulers on the St. John river.

The day I speak of, Adam (for that was his name) got on my load with me and said, "Fraser, I have been pleased with the job you are doing. You have ability in building a load, and I have yet to see you overloaded or underloaded." You can well imagine my feelings having a "veteran" speak in that manner.

Then he said, "I have just one criticism to offer — you ought to sit side-ways on your load."

With that remark I said to myself, you should have known that he was making fun of you from the beginning. He seemed to sense my thoughts, and assured me that he was dead serious, and proceeded to tell me why.

"When you are facing your horses," said he, "you see every move they make. If they stumble, you pull them up. If they reach out to nip a twig from a bush, again you pull them into line. Consequently, you keep them under tension, nervous and hot." He continued by saying, "Your main object is to get this load to the Landings and to do so with as little strain on your horses as is possible. Now you try sitting side-ways on your load and just see how much cooler your horses will be when you arrive."

Reader, I have said all this to say that during the years of my life I have found that bit of homespun philosophy the best advice possible for all practical purposes.

I have been in homes, and so have you, where nothing was easy. The children were distraught and nervous. And all because one or both parents persisted in watching their every move. The basis was there for a happy home but the parents just couldn't learn to "sit side-ways".

We have churches where tension is so thick all the time that one couldn't get blessed no how, and all because of some self-appointed gods. Making no effort at perfection for themselves they demand it of everyone else. They have not learned that time can correct many ills much better than they can. I have lived long enough to discover that given time and a bit of encouragement some thoughtless, kiddy youngsters, and some vacillating, irresponsible elders, can develop into wonderful Christians. Just "sitting side-ways" can work miracles in many situations. Reader, how about giving my friend's advice a try? Could make a difference! — Fraser Dunlop.

High School Principal A. Harold Fenelon spoke in regard to the number of students it takes to make an ideal size school.

NEW HEADQUARTERS FOR BORDER PATROL — This is the architect's version of the $310,000 building that is to be built in Houlton for the United States Border Patrol sector. It is

B & A Given Approval To Purchase 100 New Refrigerator Cars

Earnings for the first nine months of 1963 of $1.54 per common share have been reported by Bangor & Arundel Corporation following a meeting of its Board of Directors in Boston. This compares with 62 cents on the same number of shares for the nine months of 1962.

Included in the 1963 figure is 41 cents per share in special income. The comparable figure in 1962 was 26 cents.

Approval was given at the meeting for the Bangor and Arundel Railroad to purchase 100 large mechanical refrigerator cars at a cost of approximately $2,000,000. This acquisition brings the number of cars of this type which have been purchased by the road within 12 months to 150.

The railroad serves five frozen food processing plants in Arundel County. A spokesman for the Bangor and Arundel said that traffic in frozen foods from this area has almost doubled in the past year.

These cars have a capacity of 3,825 cubic feet as compared with the standard mechanical refrigerator capacity of 2,500 cubic feet. The new cars will be equipped with cushion underframes, to protect loading from impacts; hand divider gates; aluminum floor racks; and roller bearings. They are capable of maintaining a temperature of minus 10 degrees Fahrenheit at an outside temperature of 110 degrees.

In other business the directors of the corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of 12½ cents per share payable December 31 to stockholders of record December 13.

There is something other than a highway being built here. It's the economic progress of a state. Good highways mean progress. They reduce the cost of what we sell and what we buy. They help us compete with our neighbors in selling the goods we produce and we in turn enjoy a better way of life. So let's keep building.

The two-way fireplace is located in such a manner that it can be enjoyed from the family room and the living room. A folding door allows privacy between the two areas and when opened presents a spacious area 27 feet wide free from cross room traffic. Three good-sized bedrooms with floor to ceiling wardrobe type closets are convenient to the bathroom and joined by a minimum hall. Insulation Keeps
Home Warm, Cool

Dog days don't dog human beings who've thoroughly insulated their homes with mineral wool. Although it's permanently out of sight, insulation has a visible effect on the way people — and dogs — feel, look, and act, summer and winter. Temperatures no longer sizzle with the heat or curdle with the cold, because thorough insulation helps keep the house mint-cool all summer and toasty-warm all winter.

At the same time, both heating and cooling bills are substantially lower than with little or no insulation.

Automatic Dishwasher
Can Ease House Keeping

In this day and age when trips to school, tours with the garden club, afternoons at the library — a myriad of other activities take so much of the homemaker's time, any relief from demands of the household is very welcome news. Some women are saying, "It's about time modern-day technology did something to eliminate the work in house keeping."

Just relax — something has been done about it! A time and work saving device — the automatic dishwasher — is being found in more and more kitchens each year. Records show that about 10 households out of every 100 are now enjoying the benefits of automatic dishwashing. Dishwasher sales, which have been growing steadily for five years, are expected to reach 725,000 units this year alone.

Simply by setting a single dial, the old-fashioned, time-consuming drudgery of hand washing and drying is ended forever.

Just prepare dishes as you would for hand washing, load the racks, close the door, set the dial and walk out of the kitchen. The old "dishes-in-the-sink" routine is a thing of the past.

Actually, having an automatic dishwasher is like getting an extra 30-day vacation each year. (Husbands, take note!)

Surveys show the average homemaker spends up to 73 minutes per day just cleaning up after meals and washing dishes by hand.

By contrast, the automatic dishwasher makes possible a savings of 51 per cent of this time — a total of 229 hours per year.

Here's something else to consider. Instead of doing the dishes after every meal, just store the cookware in the machine and wash them on a once-a-day basis. Capacious racks provide storage space for up to 12 table settings, adequate capacity for the average size family.

The emphasis in dishwashers this year is on functional styling and quiet operation. For example, a sculptured top with raised edges provides useful, spill-saving work space — something that is always welcomed by the homemaker. Of course, this year's models come in four colors — pink, turquoise, yellow and copper.

TIPS
from
Ruth
Extension Agent

Again this year the U.S. Department of Agriculture has put turkeys and cranberries at the top of its November list of plentiful foods. It also includes apples, grapes, potatoes, and Maine sardines.

The cranberry crop is expected to be the third largest on record. This means that you will find plentiful supplies — and their price will be right to go with the Thanksgiving turkey.

Crisp — colorful apples can add a spark to your menus at this time of year. Do you use them in a variety of ways or do you stick to just a few familiar ways as apple pie, apple sauce, baked apples? Try adding one coarsely chopped raw apple to the dry ingredients of your muffin mixture, before adding liquid. Have you recently made a brown Betty, Dutch apple cake, apple bars, apple salad, apple sauce cake? Here is one of my favorite ways to use apples.

Apple brown Betty: 6 tart apples, diced; 1 quart of half-inch bread cubes, toasted in oven until crisp and light brown; 1/2 cup sugar; 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine.

In a greased baking dish place alternate layers of apples and of crumbs. Sprinkle sugar, cinnamon, and salt over the apples. Pour the melted fat over the top layer of crumbs. Cover and bake at 375 degrees F for 30-45 minutes until apples are tender. Toward the last remove the cover and allow to brown. Serve warm with plain or whipped cream. (Six servings.)

Clean, Updated
Room Will Keep Children Happy

Has your child outgrown his room? Is he always playing in other parts of your home? If you haven't updated your boy's or girl's room in the past two years, it's no wonder you're always finding toys and playthings underfoot all over the house.

Psychologists recommend that a child's room have flexible facilities that can be updated regularly to keep pace with his growth. According to the American Home Improvement Institute, national clearing house for design and building information.

One of the most practical elements in the room is storage space. The Institute suggests a storage wall unit with drawers that have stops so they can't be pulled out accidentally and shelves that can be adjusted to varying heights as the child grows older. Colorful knobs on bins and drawers can be changed over the years to help give the room a look of maturity.

A low play table for the tot can later be used by the teen as a dressing table or homework desk if its height is adjustable. The table can be built into the wall unit in place of a shelf or a flush door can be placed between two dressers on adjustable brackets. Adjustable closet rods also provide flexibility.

Another important element is separation of activity areas. Play and sleeping areas should be separated with a room divider of Panelaire filigree that limits visibility and provides privacy, especially if the room is shared by two or more children. A non-permanent divider can be made with spring plungers at the top so it can be moved later if you change the furniture arrangement.

Decoration of the room also will be due for a change. Besides making the color scheme more sophisticated, fabrics and wall coverings with childish prints should be replaced by more adult designs. Carpets and rugs can be substituted for the easy-to-clean linoleum or tile floor that was necessary when the child was younger.

All lumber is bought and sold by grade. Lumber is graded for appearance — that means all finish items — and for strength — which includes all sorts of 2 x 4s and framing lumber, as well as timbers.

California Kitchens Colorful,
Says The Designer Who Knows

"This is a California kitchen — color it with imagination," says Mrs. Mary Ann Krue, California kitchen designer, to her customers.

"Women — at least those in my part of the country — are much more daring about the use of color in kitchens than they used to be. In the past, most kitchens were either yellow or white. Today's homemakers don't hesitate to use two and often three different colors," according to Mrs. Krue, owner of Western Kitchens in Pomona.

"There is a strong preference for appliances in colors. Many prefer matching colors, but others like to use contrasting colors," Mrs. Krue added.

"The use of labor-saving automatic appliances in our kitchens is just about mandatory, and among these, built-ins lead the way. Automatic electric dishwashers, for example, are classified as standard equipment in virtually every home above $12,000," she said.

Mrs. Krue urges families to select a quality dishwasher because, she says, "It's the most-used appliance in the kitchen."

The pace-setter in electric ranges, according to Mrs. Krue, consists of separate built-in wall ovens and surface units. The next most popular is the type that features an oven or double oven above the surface cooking units. These high-oven ranges, which hang on a wall or set on a cabinet, are excellent for use by renters. They look built-in but can be taken along when a family moves.

Most of her clients specify two ovens, Mrs. Krue said — one for meat and one for baking. "Two ovens plus the marvelous automatic controls they have today help give the housewife a lot more freedom, and she's a better cook, too, because results are consistently good. And electric double ovens require a minimum of space," she added.

The trend in electric refrigerator-freezers is toward larger capacity and also toward combination refrigerator-freezers, that never need defrosting, Mrs. Krue noted.

In 1940, she said, "refrigerators were eight, nine, or ten cubic-foot units. Today, for the same price, 18- and 20-cubic-foot units are available — and they don't take up any more floor space than the old ones."

And what about Mrs. Krue's

Wind-Resistant
Roof Can Flout
Wild Hurricanes

It's time to batten down hatches in high-wind areas for the storm season. The first spot to check is the roof, because once it's damaged the rest of the house and its furnishings are wide open to the driving rains that sweep along with most storms.

Roofers, home owners and housing officials in hurricane and other high-wind areas of the country have found that self-sealing asphalt shingles with the Underwriters' Laboratories wind-resistant label have successfully withstood 100-mph hurricanes. They are also fire-resistant and durable.

own kitchen? It's adequate, she said, but it doesn't come close to the dream kitchen she has designed for the new house she and her husband are soon to build. "It will have electric appliances throughout, plenty of room to move around, ample counter space and separate refrigerator and freezer units."

Maintenance Free
Walls To Receive
Fair's Acid Test

Eye-catching new walls for the home, said to be "maintenance free," will be put to the acid test during the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

The plywood wall paneling, which looks and feels like hand-rubbed furniture, has just been selected for a full-scale traditional home, designed by architects Royal Barry Wills & Associates of Boston as part of the 1½-acre House of Good Taste exhibit of modern living. The wall material was developed by Georgia-Pacific Corp.

Leading U.S. manufacturers of materials are participating in the project "on an invitation basis to represent the best the nation has to offer," according to House of Good Taste officials.

A catalyzed factory finish, called Acryglas, will protect the walls against dirt, grease, cotton candy and most other hazards they will face under inspection by millions of visitors during the two April-October seasons of the fair.

From hundreds of choices, the architects have chosen random-planked golden elm for all four walls of the family room, random-planked "heirloom" cherry for three walls of the den with the fourth wall to be book shelves of sliced cherry plywood with the same Acryglas finish, and sequence-matched sliced walnut for the living room's fireplace feature wall.

The other three living room walls, and all dining room walls, will have a white-painted fir plywood wainscoting with a medium density smooth overlay, factory applied, to insure a permanently smooth surface and a long lasting paint job.

The best of public highways will not help motorists who are not safety-minded.

Sometimes a decision made in haste is nothing more than a jump at a conclusion.

ASTC Dorm To Bear Name Of IF Woman

The new dormitory for women at the Aroostook State Teachers College in Presque Isle is to be formally dedicated as Emerson Hall next Thursday. It will be named in honor of the late Mrs. Ralph W. Emerson of Island Falls, chairman of the State Board of Education at the time of her death, December 12, 1961.

Mrs. Emerson attended her first meeting of the State Normal School Board on May 17, 1944, having been appointed to its membership by the Honorable Summer Sewall, then Governor of Maine. An Act of Legislature changed its title in 1945 to the Normal School and Teachers College Board and on May 7, 1949 it was superseded by the new State Board of Education.

Mrs. Emerson was a native of Island Falls, a graduate of its public school system and of Simmons College. She was awarded an honorary doctorate by Ricker College for her contributions toward the improvement of educational opportunities for the boys and girls of the State. Mrs. Emerson also devoted her abilities and time to social and religious betterment.

Among the many offices that she held were presidency of the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs, vice presidency of the Maine Congregational Christian Conference and offices in many other state, county and community organizations with which she was affiliated.

The three-story dormitory, designed for occupancy by 152 students, is located on the northeast corner of the 123-acre farm purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fish as an addition to the College campus. The amount available for the construction and equipping of the building was approximately $764,000 of the $2.6 million self-amortizing bond issue approved by the 1959 referendum vote for dormitory facilities for the state teachers colleges.

More and more, it seems, people are taking advantage of the many different services that are offered by Fraser's Taxi. These would include the regular taxi service to take you to and from your work, to take your youngsters to school, to take you shopping or to an appointment downtown, to drop you off at a friend's for a visit, or to deliver packages that you have ordered.

And when you call Fraser's Taxi, you know that this service is going to be provided promptly and courteously, and at reasonable prices.

Two New Cabs

Sheridan Fraser, who has operated the taxi business for the past year and a half after purchasing it from Henry Ivey in February of 1962, has added two new cabs to his fleet this year for the comfort and convenience of his patrons. Fraser has five cabs in service, and they are available seven days a week from 5 a.m. until 1 a.m.

The taxi service has actually been operated in Houlton for the past 20 years, first by Ivey and now by Fraser.

All five of the Fraser taxi cabs are equipped with two-way radios that keep the driver in constant contact with the main office at Union Square. This radio communication means faster dispatching of the cabs, and of course, subsequent better service to patrons.

The pick-up and delivery service offered by Fraser's is becoming more popular all the time. Through this phase of the business, the taxi drivers pick up groceries, prescriptions and other bundles at the request of a customer and deliver them to any designated destination at a charge equal only to the regular trip fare.

Many of Fraser's customers have also found that the company's ticket system is a pleasant way to save money. Eleven tickets in a book are sold for the price of 10, meaning that after each 10 paid rides, the eleventh ride is free.

Experienced Drivers
Experienced drivers who know the area and who have compiled enviable records for safety are employed to operate the Fraser taxis. The safety factor is an important part of the service to be offered, and is one that has not been overlooked at Fraser's.

All of these many services of Fraser's Taxi are as close as your telephone. Simply dial 2-2855 anytime between the hours of 5 a.m. and 1 a.m. and a driver will be dispatched quickly at your command.
